ROBIN CROZIER

AD SOUTS CARAVELLE BLACK

In spite of its apparent simplicity the game, when played, invariably develops a rich and complex set of interrelationships. The four contestants (though each is playing, ultimately, for himself or herself) attempt to proceed by means of a shifting series of alliances, co-operating with each other in order to gain advantage over the player or players excluded from the co-operation. Such alliances are liable to be broken suddenly and without warning. The timing of such breaks is crucial: they will occur at most inopportune moments (as far as the player who is surprisingly left alone is concerned!). So as to give no hint by their facial expressions that they are about to land their partner/s in the shit, all players wear impassive masks of a standardised design.

Many close friendships have been irreconcilably shattered at the game table.
