In the fall of 1977 I constructed a set of ten bottles, each bottle containing a message in collage. The entire set operating as a book on the sea. I photographed the bottles and made postcards. Each bottle was packaged with a card and instructions for the receiver to deposit the bottle in an ocean or a river running to the sea. The packages were mailed late in the year to friends living in ports and ocean front areas. Nine cards came back and so far one bottle has been recovered.
